Adventures in Zambian Politics: A Story in Black and White

Guy Scott

“A riveting account of Zambian political and economic developments, from independence to today’s Chinese dependence, by a major protagonist.”—Domenico M. Nuti,
Sapienza University of Rome

“A remarkably frank insider’s account of a unique political partnership.... Guy Scott’s themes range from derring-do on the campaign trail, to Keynesian economics, bare-knuckles backstage maneuvering, the blight of AIDS, and the complex web of forces that conspire against reform in his native Zambia and many other parts of Africa.”
—Alan Cowell, former foreign correspondent,
New York Times, and author of Killing the Wizards

“This excellent book is a revealing account of ... African politics from the inside. It is also a splendid rebuke to those (far from absent in the academy, as elsewhere) who are content or even eager to settle for tabloid understandings of African politicians.”—Calum Fisher, Africa

As Miles Larmer writes in the foreword, Adventures in Zambian Politics is unlike any political memoir you have ever read.

It is ... A political history of Zambia from colonial times to the present. A revealing insider account of politics and government within a modern African state. A story about race in Africa. A chronicle of the rise and fall of two improbable political allies who wanted to change Zambian politics: Michael Sata, whose convoluted political career led him to become president in 2011, and Guy Scott, Sata’s vice president and, after Sata’s death, acting president of Zambia. Not least, it is a pleasure to read.

Guy Scott’s absorbing narrative of his career and Michael Sata’s in the chaotic world of African politics tells a uniquely Zambian story. But it is also a special contribution to our understanding of democracy and democratization across Africa.

Guy Scott was acting president of Zambia after the death of President Michael Sata. Prior to that he was vice president (2011–2014) and had also served as minister of agriculture and an opposition leader in the Zambian parliament.

2ND EDITION

Inside African Politics

Kevin C. Dunn and Pierre Englebort

“A book that is relevant not only to teaching but to broader scholarship and research as well.”

—Gemma Bird, Journal of Modern African Studies

Praise for the 1st edition:

“Will no doubt become the standard text for years to come: a sharply written, well-informed, and completely up-to-date book that should find a wide audience beyond the classroom, as well.”

—Nicolas van de Walle, Foreign Affairs

“A superior textbook. Inside African Politics will appeal to undergraduates looking for an introduction to African politics, as well as to graduate students searching for broad theoretical discussions.”

—Ngonidzashe Munemo,
Williams College

“Inside African Politics is destined to become a standard reference for teaching and research.” —Michael Bratton, Michigan State University

The second edition of Inside African Politics, updated throughout to reflect political developments across the continent, not only provides thorough coverage of the full range of core topics, but also furthers an awareness and understanding of key theoretical issues and current debates.

Drawing on their extensive teaching and fieldwork experience, Kevin Dunn and Pierre Englebort offer:

- A straightforward, accessible style, making even complex ideas easy to understand
- A balanced approach, exposing multiple perspectives on contested issues
- A focus on both states and citizens, politics from above and below
- Discussions of existing policies, as well as policy implications of different approaches
- An abundance of rich data and illustrative examples

The result is both an essential text and a long-term resource for students and scholars alike.

Kevin C. Dunn is Donald R. Harter Professor of political science at Hobart and William Smith Colleges. Pierre Englebort is H. Russell Smith Professor of international relations at Pomona College.

6TH EDITION

Understanding Contemporary Africa

Peter J. Schraeder, editor

Praise for the previous editions:

“A welcome breath of fresh air.” —Orbis

“Excellent.... A remarkably sound text for introductory courses on Sub-Saharan Africa.” —Journal of Developing Areas

“A well chosen and integrated whole.... Deserving of a prominent place in university programmes.” —Canadian Journal of Development Studies

The sixth edition of Understanding Contemporary Africa, and the first under the editorship of Peter Schraeder, combines the historic strengths of the previous editions with coverage of new topics suggested over the years by the many instructors who regularly assign the text in their classes.

Entirely new chapters on the politics of public health, the changing roles of women, LGBTIQ rights, environmental challenges, and population and urbanization, along with new treatments of such classic topics as geography, history, politics, economics, international relations, and more, make for an unparalleled introduction to the complexities of Africa today.

Peter J. Schraeder is professor of political science and dean of the College of Arts and Science at Loyola University Chicago.

US Policy Toward Africa: Eight Decades of Realpolitik

Herman J. Cohen

“[This] comprehensive political history of US-African relations carefully chronicles American policy on the continent across successive presidencies, from the administration of Franklin Roosevelt to that of Donald Trump.” —Nicolas van de Walle, Foreign Affairs

“Ambassador Cohen’s work fills a void ... and it is hard to think of anyone as qualified as he is to undertake such a work.”

—John Campbell,
Council on Foreign Relations

Herman Cohen draws on both the documentary record and his years of on-the-ground experience to provide a uniquely comprehensive survey and interpretation of nearly eight decades of US policy toward Africa.

Tracing how this policy has evolved across successive administrations since 1942 (beginning with President Franklin D. Roosevelt’s third term in office), Cohen illuminates the debates that have taken place at the highest levels of government; shows how policy toward Africa has been affected over the years by US relations with Europe, the Soviet Union, the Middle East, and most recently China; and points to the increasing reliance of Western economic interests on Africa’s natural resources. His deeply informed narrative reveals the roles not only of circumstance and ideology, but also of personalities, in the formulation and implementation of US foreign policy.

Herman J. Cohen was a member of the US Foreign Service for thirty-eight years, posted to embassies in France, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Uganda, Zambia, and Zimbabwe. He was US ambassador to Senegal and The Gambia and served as assistant secretary of state for Africa under President George H. W. Bush. Subsequently, he was senior adviser in the Africa region at the World Bank. He is now president of Cohen and Woods, an international consulting firm.

Africa’s International Relations: Balancing Domestic and Global Interests

Beth Elise Whitaker and John F. Clark

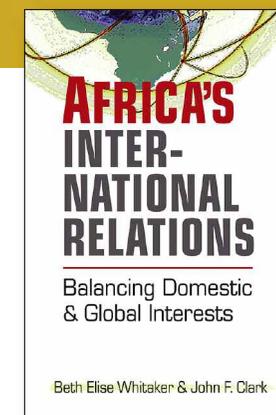

“Brings together a deep appreciation for the region’s historical context with important theoretical insights from the major traditions of international relations theory. This text will be of great value to both students and policymakers eager to understand how African countries relate to each other and the rest of the world.” —Michael Byron Nelson, Monmouth College

“To explain Africa’s international relations in one book is a daunting challenge, one that the authors have fully met.... I will certainly adopt this book as a required text for my classes.” —Emmanuel Uwalaka, St. Louis University

Comprehensive and engaging, this timely introduction to Africa’s international relations explores how power, interests, and ideas influence interactions both among the continent’s states and between African states and other actors in the global arena.

How has history shaped the international relations of African states and peoples? What role does identity play? How are foreign policies linked to domestic political dynamics, and especially to the pursuit of regime security? How are states grappling with the tensions between sovereignty and external pressures? These are among the questions answered as the authors address a wide range of ongoing and emerging challenges, all in historical and theoretical context. In addition, a case study at the end of each chapter illustrates key concepts and reflects an ongoing debate. The result is an ideal text for students, as well as an invaluable resource for researchers and policymakers.

Beth Elise Whitaker is associate professor of political science at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. John F. Clark is professor of politics and international relations at Florida International University.

The Making of Contemporary Africa: The Development of African Society Since 1800

Bill Freund

Praise for the previous editions:

“A landmark in African historiography.... Well planned and clearly written.”

—John Lonsdale, Journal of African History

This comprehensive yet accessible text critically traces the complex trajectory of African society, culture, economy, and politics across more than two centuries.

Appearing nearly two decades after the previous edition was published, the third edition of The Making of Contemporary Africa has not only been revised throughout, but also includes two entirely new chapters: one specifically on the twenty-first century and one on postindependence cultural and social history.

The late Bill Freund was professor emeritus of economic history at the University of KwaZulu-Natal.

The Fates of African Rebels: Victory, Defeat, and the Politics of Civil War

Christopher Day

“Theoretically sophisticated and empirically rich, this is an impressive contribution to the literature on African conflicts. Day offers innovative and compelling arguments while exploring fundamental questions about the fates of African rebels.” —Kevin Dunn, Hobart and William Smith Colleges

What determines the outcome for rebels in contemporary African civil wars? How are “victory” and “defeat” measured? Is there any connection between a rebel group’s organization and its fate? What implications do the answers to these questions have for policymakers concerned with ongoing armed conflicts? Addressing these issues and more, Christopher Day explores the relationship between rebel groups and regime politics in Africa.

Christopher Day is associate professor of political science at the College of Charleston.

CONTENTS

Women and Development in Africa: How Gender Works

Michael Kevane

Praise for the 1st edition:

“A unique and rare book. It is a welcome addition to the literature on women and development.... Kevane challenges economists and scholars of development to ask better questions, develop well-informed hypotheses, adopt more rigorous methods, and test their assumptions through solid empirical research.”

The Time of Youth: Work, Social Change, and Politics in Africa

Alcinda Honwana

“This clearly written, well-structured study summarizes the contemporary situation of African youth, but also regularly gestures toward a more global analysis of the generation that grew up in the shadow of structural adjustment and neoliberalism.... Highly recommended.”

—Choice

Honwana focuses on the transformative potential of the “waithood” generation as young people across Africa come to believe that the struggle to overcome their predicament requires radical social and political change.

Moral Eyes: Youth and Justice in Cameroon, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, and South Africa

Sharlene Swartz, Anye Nyamnjoh, Emma Arogundade,
Jessica Breaker, and Abioseh Bockarie

“A wonderful book and an excellent contribution to the literature on social justice and the moral character of transitions to a more just society.”

—Lawrence Blum, University of Massachusetts

Grappling with issues of privilege and injustice in Cameroon, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, and South Africa, the authors draw on extensive interviews with university students to demonstrate how injustices find a place within the collective memory of young people.

3RD EDITION

African Development: Making Sense of the Issues and Actors

Todd J. Moss and Danielle Resnick

Praise for the previous editions:

“Thoughtful, well written.... [This] book leads the student to a deep understanding of the actors at work in Africa’s development.”

—Barry Riddell,

Canadian Journal of Development Studies

“Treating both political and economic themes with admirable clarity, [Moss] walks the reader briskly through Africa’s colonial legacy, the syndrome of personal rule, the economic liabilities of conflict, and the challenges of democratic reform.... Provides a thorough and critical but fair-minded treatment in a style that is plainspoken and often witty.”

—Peter Lewis, Foreign Affairs

“An excellent introduction to current political and economic issues in Africa.... Highly recommended.”

—Choice

Both authoritative and accessible, African Development introduces the issues, actors, and institutions at play in development trajectories across sub-Saharan Africa.

This new edition, thoroughly updated, includes an entirely new chapter devoted to key demographic trends in the region, especially rapid urbanization and the distinct “youth bulge.” There is also a review of major democratic gains and disappointments since 2011; analysis of renewed internal armed conflicts; and attention to the contemporary sovereign debt crisis relative to the structural adjustment debt of earlier decades.

The book uniquely brings to life the collective impact of history, economics, and politics on development in the region.

Todd J. Moss is senior fellow at the Center for Global Development and non-resident scholar at Rice University. Danielle Resnick is senior research fellow in the Development Strategy and Governance Division of the International Food Policy Research Institute.

Making Institutions Work in South Africa

Daniel Plaatjies, editor

Making Institutions Work in South Africa places the structures and processes of institutionalization at the center of debates about democracy, state, and society in South Africa.

As they explore the factors that facilitate, and those that impede, strong, well-functioning institutions, the contributors share three core assumptions: institutions are the pillars of a constitutional democracy; they evolve through the actions of people (agency); and they form structures of dynamic, shared social patterns of behavior through the implementation of the rule of law.

Daniel Plaatjies is chair of South Africa's Financial and Fiscal Commission. He previously served as head of the Graduate School of Governance, University of the Witwatersrand.

Anatomy of the ANC in Power: Insights from Port Elizabeth, 1990–2019

Mcebisi Ndletyana

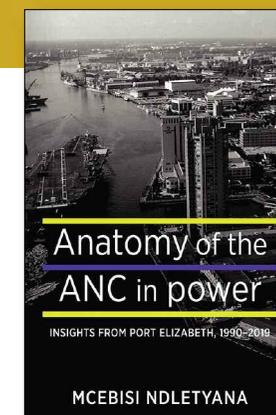

“[An] exemplary study.... Ndletyana’s examination of how and why the ANC became so corrupt, so dysfunctional, so focused on benefitting itself and its leading cadres ... is of enormous academic and public-policy value.... Essential.” —Choice

“A cogent analysis of how a liberation movement is [affected] by transition into political office.... Ndletyana uniquely delves into the reasons behind the ignominious decline of the ANC in a region historically endowed with an excellent corps of cadres.” —Joel Netshitenzhe, University of the Witwatersrand

Observers reacted with shock to the 2016 African National Congress electoral loss in Port Elizabeth, once an ANC stronghold. Yet, argues Mcebisi Ndletyana, that loss should not have come as a surprise—nor, perhaps, should the subsequent absence of reforms within the party.

Ndletyana explores power and politics in Port Elizabeth since 1990, tracing the ANC's postapartheid trajectory of rebuilding and decline. What his study reveals is an organization that not only failed to cohere as a democratic institution, but became an amalgam of greedy factions competing for patronage. Though his canvas is local, his analysis importantly informs what is happening now in South Africa at the national level.

Mcebisi Ndletyana is head of the political economy faculty at the Mapungubwe Institute for Strategic Reflection (MISTRA). He has also taught at the City University of New York, Marmount Manhattan College, and the Nelson Mandela Metro University.

please order directly from our US office.*

Discounts are available through our US office only.

Desk/Exam Copies in the US and Canada

If you want to adopt (or are considering adopting) one of our paperbacks for a course, ebooks are free for 60 days, after which your access will cease, or you can pay $8 for perpetual access.

If you prefer a print copy, paperbacks are available for $8 in the US and $15 in Canada to cover shipping and handling.

Hardcover copies are available at a 50% discount, plus shipping.

Please limit your request to 3 books and include the name of your institution along with the name and number of the course, its anticipated enrollment, and when it will be offered.

Special Paperback Program in the US and Canada

Want to use one of our hardcover books in your class? Our Text-in-Time® print-on-demand paperback program allows us to make hardcover books available at a price suitable for course use. Simply have your bookstore call us at 303-444-6684 to place a prepaid, nonreturnable order, and books will be delivered within four weeks.

International Orders

Outside the US and Canada, please contact the appropriate representative listed on page 14 or see the box at the right.

Returns

Returns must be received within 12 months of the invoice date, be in clean, saleable condition, and accompanied by the invoice number or a copy of the invoice. Retail returns are limited to 20% for each book ordered.

All returns must be shipped to our warehouse:

Lynne Rienner Publishers, Inc.
