Copycat Crime and Copycat Criminals

Ray Surette

“Avoiding the pitfalls of linear causality, Surette shows why media attuned criminologists must treat seriously the phenomena of copycat crime.”

—Travis Linnemann, Kansas State University

“Surette synthesizes theory, research, and real-world examples to offer a comprehensive look at the phenomenon of copycat crime.... His new book is a must read for anyone interested in learning more about the potential connections between the media and criminal behavior.”

—Dawn K. Cecil,
University of South Florida, St. Petersburg

How prevalent is copycat crime? Can we accurately identify it? What role does the media play in encouraging it? These are among the questions that Ray Surette addresses in his comprehensive study of the nature of copycat crime, both past and present, and the forces that drive it.

Surette goes beyond prevalent myths and anecdotal evidence to rigorously define copycat crime and to place it in theoretical context. He also thoroughly explores how the changing nature of the media, especially the evolution of social media, has had an impact on copycat crime and criminals. His book brings together insights from a range of disciplines and a wealth of examples, successfully countering misconceptions and making evidence-based recommendations for social policies and practices.

Ray Surette is a professor in the Department of Criminal Justice at the University of Central Florida.

Cyber Intelligence: Actors, Policies, and Practices

Constance S. Uthoff

“A valuable contribution.... Providing many detailed examples of cyber attacks aimed at the public and private sectors, Uthoff both documents and explains the various US policies and doctrines related to cyber intelligence and cyber threats from the 1990s to the present.”

—John D. Woodward, Jr., Boston University

US national security compromised by Wikileaks. Towns held hostage by ransomware. Corporate websites hacked. Cyber espionage and cybercrimes are increasing in both frequency and sophistication—requiring the collection of actionable intelligence in order to combat them. Constance Uthoff provides a comprehensive overview of cyber intelligence, explaining what it is, why it is needed, who is doing it, and how it is done.

Notably, Cyber Intelligence:

- Outlines the roles of the major US intelligence agencies involved.
- Assesses significant laws and policies from the 1990s to the present.
- Compares methods and best practices across the public and private sectors.
- Looks beyond the US to explore the capabilities of actors like China, Iran, and Russia.
- Includes real-world examples and case studies.

The result is an in-depth examination of the processes and applications of spying in cyberspace, accessible to a wide range of readers.

Constance S. Uthoff is associate program director of the Cybersecurity Strategy and Information Management Program at George Washington University.

Intelligence for Homeland Security: An Introduction

Jeffrey Douglas Dailey and James Robert Phelps

“Highly recommended as a primary textbook for any Homeland Security or Emergency Management course.” —Samuel T. Akers, Georgia Military College

Since the September 11 terrorist attacks—considered one of the worst intelligence failures in US history—the many agencies that constitute the homeland security enterprise have aggressively developed their intelligence capabilities and activities. Jeffrey Dailey and James Phelps provide a comprehensive introduction to the nature of intelligence, its structures, roles, and missions, in the context of homeland security.

This accessible text:

- Covers the full gamut of agencies involved in homeland security.
- Tackles difficult ethical issues.
- Discusses specific threats—ranging from drug trafficking and money laundering to bioterrorism and the challenges of Covid-19—and how they are dealt with by the intelligence community.
- Looks at how intelligence for national security can be applied to domestic security.
- Addresses the realities of intelligence sharing among federal, state, and local organizations.

Enriched with numerous case studies of both successes and failures, the book has been carefully designed to meet the needs of students focusing on homeland security, intelligence, criminal justice, policing, security management, and related fields.

Jeffrey Douglas Dailey is associate professor in the Department of Security Studies and Criminal Justice at Angelo State University. James Robert Phelps created one of the nationally top-10-ranked programs in border and homeland security at Angelo State University. He is now on the adjunct graduate faculty at Aurora University and NOVA Southeastern University.

Spying: Assessing US Domestic Intelligence Since 9/11

Darren E. Tromblay

“Offers a bold analysis of post–September 11 domestic intelligence reforms—primarily but not exclusively focusing on the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and the Department of Homeland Security.... A valuable contribution.”

—Douglas M. Charles,
Political Science Quarterly

Initiated in the aftermath of the September 11 terrorist attacks, have the reforms of the US intelligence enterprise served their purpose? What have been the results of the creation of the Department of Homeland Security, the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, and a reorganized FBI? Have they helped to reduce blind spots and redundancies in resources and responsibilities ... and to prevent misuses of intelligence and law enforcement? How did a disaster like the Snowden scandal happen?

Darren Tromblay answers these questions in his thorough, often provocative, assessment of post–9/11 US domestic intelligence activities in the pursuit of national security.

Darren E. Tromblay has served as an intelligence analyst with the US government since 2005.

Nixon’s FBI: Hoover, Watergate, and a Bureau in Crisis

Melissa Graves

“A fine book.”
—Choice

“Nixon’s FBI [is] an important read.”

—James Robenalt,
Washington Decoded

In 1974, Richard Nixon resigned in disgrace. In 2020, Donald Trump was impeached. Both were investigated by the FBI, an agency under their control. How is it that the bureau is responsible for investigating the president it serves? How can it do so effectively? Nixon’s FBI confronts these questions.

Melissa Graves draws on groundbreaking research and personal interviews with several of the agents involved to take us back to the time of the Watergate scandal. Her new perspective on J. Edgar Hoover’s last days, his successor’s tenure, and the many obstacles that FBI special agents faced from both their leadership and the White House reveals the always complex and often fraught relationship between the president and the FBI ... and makes palpable the ways that history repeats itself.

Melissa Graves is assistant professor of intelligence studies at The Citadel.

Terrorism and Counterterrorism: A Comprehensive Introduction to Actors and Actions

Henry Prunckun and Troy Whitford

“A practical, easy-to-read, and timely learning tool for students with little or no previous exposure to terrorism-related issues.” —Cesar Alvarez, Salus Journal

“Exemplary.... An indispensable guide for understanding the components involved in analyzing the terrorist threat and the measures required for effective response.” —Joshua Sinai, The Washington Times

What is terrorism? How do terrorists operate—what are their means, targets, and motivations? How can governments prevent terrorist attacks from happening? Henry Prunckun and Troy Whitford address these questions in their systematic, comprehensive exploration of terrorism and counterterrorism.

Notably, this authoritative text:

- Explains complex issues in an objective, accessible way.
- Traces the phenomenon of terrorism through history.
- Examines law enforcement, as well as intelligence and military operations.
- Features case studies from around the world.
- Includes learning aids for students.

Designed to appeal to both students and instructors, the text enables readers to deepen their understanding of terrorism today and learn what is being done to combat it.

Henry Prunckun is a research criminologist at the Australian Graduate School of Policing and Security (AGSPS), Charles Sturt University. He previously served as a senior counterterrorism policy analyst and has held a number of operational postings in investigation and security. Troy Whitford is lecturer in intelligence and security studies at AGSPS.

4TH EDITION

Crime, Justice, and Society: An Introduction to Criminology

Ronald J. Berger, Marvin D. Free, Jr., Melissa Deller, and Patrick K. O'Brien

Praise for the previous editions:

"The best introduction to criminology on the market by far." —Erik D. Fritsvold, University of San Diego

"Encourages students to critically assess the causes and patterns of crime, forms of victimization, and institutional responses, and provides a context for understanding the structural complexities related to criminal behavior."

—Robert L. Peralta, University of Akron

Now fully revised, Crime, Justice, and Society is designed not only to introduce students to the core issues of criminology, but also to help them think critically about often-sensationalized topics.

Features of the fourth edition include:

- A student-friendly, streamlined organization.
- Firsthand perspectives from offenders, victims, and criminal justice professionals.
- Expanded coverage of white-collar and government crime.
- A focus on the dynamics of race, class, and ethnicity.
- A chapter on drug-related crime and antidrug laws.
- Discussion of topics in the news: marijuana laws, sex trafficking, stand-your-ground policies, and more.

This new edition of a now-classic text—both accessible and sophisticated—will be welcomed by students and instructors alike.

Ronald J. Berger and Marvin D. Free, Jr., are professors emeritus of sociology; Melissa Deller is senior lecturer in sociology; and Patrick K. O'Brien is assistant professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin–Whitewater.

Social Problems and Social Control in Criminal Justice

Stacy Burns and Mark Peyrot

"A compelling book.... The authors capture the shifting trajectories of social control that are institutionally mobilized in response to a broad range of social problems." —Peter R. Ibarra, University of Illinois Chicago

Today's headlines are rife with reports of hate crimes, domestic terrorism, drug abuse, police malfeasance, and many other profound social problems. Equally, there are discussions, often contentious, about how best to respond to the issues raised. Stacy Burns and Mark Peyrot explore government efforts to address social problems in the context of the criminal justice system.

Adopting an institutionalist perspective, the authors show how social control efforts have adapted and changed over time—and how some efforts have inadvertently contributed to the problems they are trying to alleviate. Their work draws on a wealth of sources, ranging from case law to popular initiatives to policy analysis, to advance both theoretical and practical understanding of criminal justice at work.

Stacy Burns is professor of sociology at Loyola Marymount University. Mark Peyrot is professor emeritus of sociology at Loyola University Maryland.

Offender Reentry: Beyond Crime and Punishment

Elaine Gunnison and Jacqueline B. Helfgott

“A timely, valuable and comprehensive discussion of research surrounding one of ‘the key criminal justice issues of our time.’” —David S. Bornus, Corrections Today

“A valuable contribution to the field.... [I] recommend it to scholars, students, and practitioners.”

—Stephen J. Bahr, Criminal Justice Review

“Bring[s] together and make[s] clear the rich range of statistical data that clearly establishes the perennial difficulties involved in achieving ‘successful reintegration’.... Highly recommended.” —Choice

“Gunnison and Helfgott discuss a critically important societal issue.... [Their] book does not offer a single simple solution to the problem of recidivism, but it does provide insight into what can be done to help reduce it.” —John Turner, Criminal Law and Criminal Justice Books

In this comprehensive exploration of the core issues surrounding offender reentry, Elaine Gunnison and Jacqueline Helfgott highlight the constant tension between policies meant to ensure smooth reintegration and the social forces—especially the stigma of a criminal record—that can prevent it from happening.

Gunnison and Helfgott focus on the factors that enhance reentry success as they address challenges related to race, class, and gender. Drawing on accounts from corrections professionals and former inmates to illustrate the real-life consequences of reentry policy, they shed light on one of the key criminal justice issues of our time.

Elaine Gunnison is associate professor of criminal justice at Seattle University. Jacqueline B. Helfgott is professor of criminal justice at Seattle University.

NEW—2ND EDITION!

The Politics of Restorative Justice: A Critical Introduction

Andrew Woolford and Amanda Nelund

Praise for the previous edition
(a Choice Outstanding Academic Book):

“Woolford’s book can serve as a primer for those not schooled in this international social movement.... [It] can also serve as a reference for those who are aware of the existing critiques yet may need help in framing the issues and understanding the challenges and full potential for ideational change, which have not been clearly described before this groundbreaking work.... A must read for all concerned with the need for change in the administration of punitive justice.” —Choice

In this new, significantly revised edition of an acclaimed text, Andrew Woolford and Amanda Nelund reconsider restorative justice and its politics both globally and locally.

The authors clarify key theoretical issues while offering fresh perspectives and provocative questions. Observing that “transformative justice is an always unfinished project,” they ask how the approach might be more effective; and they explore in depth how intersecting sociopolitical contexts—gendered, racialized, and colonial, among others—contour the practice and potential of restorative justice.

Andrew Woolford is professor of sociology and criminology at the University of Manitoba. Amanda Nelund is assistant professor of sociology at MacEwan University.

Gender Identity, Sexual Orientation, and Sexual Assault: Challenging the Myths

Corina Schulze, Sarah Koon-Magnin, and Valerie Bryan

"Sexual violence and the myths that surround this epidemic in the US are excellently introduced and explained by Schulze, Koon-Magnin, and Bryan.... Highly recommended."—Choice

The underlying argument of this groundbreaking study is this: Sexual orientation and gender identity influence how sexual assault is experienced, how it is perceived, and ultimately, how victims (and perpetrators) are treated by the criminal justice system.

Focusing much of their work on the queer community—a community with a disproportionately high risk of sexual assault—the authors introduce the Identity Inclusive Sexual Assault Myth Scale (IISAMS) to explore the unique aspects of sexual assault and the process of disclosure as experienced by queer victims. They also incorporate participant recommendations, collected during interviews, as they foreground ways for more effectively preventing and responding to sexual violence throughout contemporary society.

Corina Schulze and Sarah Koon-Magnin are associate professors in the Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice at the University of South Alabama. Valerie Bryan is associate professor in the Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work at the University of South Alabama.

Gender, Crime, and Justice: Exploring the Dynamics

Andrew Wilczak

"An excellent introduction [to] the dynamics of gender and the criminal justice system as a whole."
—Shon M. Reed, Criminal Justice Review

"Ideal for undergraduates or students without a lot of background in sociological theory. Weaving together classical theories, recent empirical studies, and contemporary examples from the news and media, Wilczak presents the complex subjects of gender, intersectionality, and criminal justice in relatable ways."—Choice

"Discussions are effectively punctuated with just the right amount of thought-provoking questions that lead the uninitiated through the unpacking of difficult concepts and invite them to experiment with different ways of thinking about gender, crime, and justice.... Issues that are highlighted are especially relevant to the interests of today's college students, and the price is right for class use."
—Phoebe Morgan, Gender & Society

Exactly what role does gender play in crime, and in the criminal justice system? Addressing this two-part question from the perspective of the offender, the victim, the community, and the overall justice system, Andrew Wilczak provides an accessible introduction to the full range of issues involved.

Notably, this comprehensive text:

- Features an inclusive focus on both men and women.
- Encompasses theory, as well as realities on the ground.
- Draws on popular culture.
- Challenges students to ask difficult questions.
- Ties concepts to students' own lives.
- Incorporates an intersectional approach.

Designed to simultaneously engage and instruct, the book is ideally suited for classroom use.

Depolicing: When Police Officers Disengage

Willard M. Oliver

“In this clearly written, well-organized account, [Oliver] systematically reviews the phenomenon of depolicing, carefully discriminating between what is mythical and what is substantive in relation to the claims about it.... Offers a valuable overview of a consequential contemporary American policing issue.” —Choice

“For individuals interested in understanding this phenomenon within the USA, they should first turn to Oliver’s Depolicing: When Police Officers Disengage.”

—Joshua T. Shadwick, Policing

Depolicing—the withdrawal from proactive law enforcement by officers on the line—has become an increasing concern within both police departments and the communities that they serve. Willard Oliver, a former policeman himself, draws on extensive interviews with officers in a variety of jurisdictions to explore how prevalent depolicing has become, why officers engage in it, and what can be done to minimize it. With officer behavior under more and more intense scrutiny, Depolicing is a uniquely important contribution to ongoing debates.

Shots Fired: Gun Violence in the United States

Howard Rahtz

“This well-documented work will be a useful starting point for both academics and the general public engaging in the gun debate.” —Library Journal

“A highly readable, thorough, and insightful examination of mass shootings and other gun violence. Shots Fired is essential for all—from informed citizens and students to police and policymakers—who are concerned about how to stop these all too frequent tragedies.” —John Eck, University of Cincinnati

Mass killings. Gang violence. Street crimes. Suicides. Accidental shootings. The United States is enduring a literal epidemic of gun violence. Howard Rahtz, drawing on decades of experience as a police officer all too familiar with the horrors that guns can cause, delves deeply into the nature and impact of this epidemic.

Rahtz explores each element of the triangle of ability, desire, and opportunity that typically characterizes gun violence. Going further, he also suggests practical, “left of bang” preventative actions—steps that could limit the violence while respecting contentious Second Amendment rights.

Howard Rahtz served for nearly two decades with the Cincinnati Police Department, retiring in 2007 as commander of the Vice Control Unit. He currently teaches at police academies in the area and speaks nationally on police reform.

After Homicide: Victims' Families in the Criminal Justice System

Sarah Goodrum

“A remarkably successful merger of the academic and the practical.”
—Sam Bieler,
Criminal Law and Criminal Justice Books

“Goodrum offers a detailed and nuanced look at the relationships of victims' families with the full range of actors in the justice system. Her findings are significant both for sociologists and for those who work with families bereaved by murder.”

—Margaret Vandiver, University of Memphis

In After Homicide, Sarah Goodrum examines the experiences of the families of murder victims as they encounter detectives, prosecutors, counselors, and others in the criminal justice system.

Goodrum traces each step of a murder investigation and trial, drawing on personal accounts and other primary sources. Based on extensive field research, her book is a uniquely comprehensive look at how the families of homicide victims are helped, and sometimes hindered, by the justice system.

Sarah Goodrum is research associate in the Center for the Study and Prevention of Violence at the Institute of Behavioral Science, University of Colorado Boulder.

Fear, Justice, and Modern True Crime

Dawn K. Cecil

For centuries, people have been drawn to true stories of crime and the justice system. But what began primarily as a literary genre focusing on murder has evolved. From docuseries and podcasts to Facebook groups and events such as CrimeCon, modern true crime has become diverse, complex, and interactive. In Fear, Justice, and Modern True Crime, Dawn Cecil examines the genre to uncover the messages it conveys.

Modern true crime, Cecil argues, has the potential to inform people about crime-related issues and the criminal justice system—but it can also reinforce popular stereotypes. Her work deftly unpacks the impact of true crime stories on our perceptions, our fears, and even the process of justice.

Dawn K. Cecil is associate professor of criminology at the University of South Florida, St. Petersburg.

Desk/Exam Copies in the US and Canada

If you want to adopt (or are considering adopting) one of our paperbacks for a course, ebooks are free for 60 days, after which your access will cease, or you can pay $8 for perpetual access.

If you prefer a print copy, paperbacks are available for $8 in the US and $15 in Canada to cover shipping and handling.

Hardcover copies are available at a 50% discount, plus shipping.

Please limit your request to 3 books and include the name of your institution along with the name and number of the course, its anticipated enrollment, and when it will be offered.

Special Paperback Program in the US and Canada

Want to use one of our hardcover books in your class? Our Text-in-Time® print-on-demand paperback program allows us to make hardcover books available at a price suitable for course use. Simply have your bookstore call us at 303-444-6684 to place a prepaid, nonreturnable order, and books will be delivered within four weeks.

International Orders

To place an order outside the US and Canada, please see the box at the right.

Returns

Returns must be received within 12 months of the invoice date, be in clean, saleable condition, and accompanied by the invoice number or a copy of the invoice. Retail returns are limited to 20% for each book ordered.

All returns must be shipped to our warehouse:

Lynne Rienner Publishers, Inc.
c/o Books International
22880 Quicksilver Drive
Dulles, VA 20166
