

Mongolia's Foreign Policy: Navigating a Changing World

Alicia Campi

“A superb study of the challenges and responses of liberated and democratic Mongolia.... Campi gives voice to the dilemmas facing this strategically positioned nation.... A must read.” —Robert Bedeski, University of Victoria

Strategically located at the crossroads of Central Asia, China, and Russia, Mongolia has long attracted the attention of major world powers. How has this traditionally nomadic, but resource rich, country used a “Wolf Strategy” to establish its own place in the modern world? What challenges does it now face? Answering these questions, Alicia Campi provides a multi-faceted examination of the context, formulation, and execution of contemporary Mongolian foreign policy.

Alicia Campi is research fellow in the Edwin O. Reischauer Center for East Asian Studies at the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS) and adjunct professor in SAIS’s Asia Programs. She also coordinates the Northeast Asia regional studies course at the Foreign Service Institute.

To Build a Free China: A Citizen's Journey

Xu Zhiyong, translated by Joshua Rosenzweig and Yaxue Cao, with an Introduction by Andrew Nathan

"Xu's personal journey perfectly captures the trajectory of the weiquan movement.... Indispensable for understanding the ideals that drive the entire movement."

—Ian Johnson, The New York Review of Books

"Highly recommended." —Choice

"Accomplished [and] engaging...."

Provides fascinating details about Xu's life, his ideas, and his civic campaigns and sheds light on the experience of the disadvantaged and exploited in China. —Eva Pils, Foreign Affairs

The story of China's rights movement—a struggle for basic human rights and democracy that, despite harsh repression, has endured for more than a decade—unfolds in Xu Zhiyong's compelling personal memoir.

In recognition of his work as an activist, lawyer, and founder of the New Citizen Movement, Dr. Xu was named one of Asia Weekly's People of the Year in 2005 and one of the Southern People's Weekly's Top Ten Young Leaders of China in 2006. His efforts have been considerably less well received, however, by the government of the PRC, and he has been arrested numerous times.

Dr. Xu served a four-year prison sentence 2013–2017 for "gathering a crowd to disrupt order in a public place." His moving statement at the end of his trial, hailed as the China Manifesto, is included in To Build a Free China.

5TH EDITION

Understanding Contemporary China

Robert E. Gamer and Stanley W. Toops, editors

"This fifth edition remains arguably the best multidisciplinary anthology on China, offering up-to-date information in a single volume.... Highly recommended." —Choice

China today bears little resemblance to the country introduced in the first edition of Understanding Contemporary China, published nearly two decades ago. Even in just the past five years, dramatic changes have occurred under the leadership of President Xi Jinping.

This new edition of the book reflects those changes, exploring the impact of new domestic policies; China's role as a behemoth in the world economy; its rapidly modernizing infrastructure; its expanding military presence in the region; the environmental challenges it confronts; and much more. The result is an accessible, well-grounded look at the most crucial issues affecting China today.

Robert E. Gamer is professor emeritus of political science at the University of Missouri—

Kansas City. Stanley W. Toops is associate professor of geography and international studies at Miami University.

Security in Asia Pacific: The Dynamics of Alignment

Thomas S. Wilkins

The complex security dynamics of the pivotal Asia Pacific region, involving disparate and contentious power blocs, clearly have implications far beyond the region itself. Thomas Wilkins sheds new light on those dynamics, providing a rich framework for better understanding the nature of security alignments in Asia Pacific, as well as a reexamination of the dominant forces at play: the US alliance system, ASEAN, and the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation.

Thomas S. Wilkins is senior lecturer in international security at the University of Sydney.

The New ASEAN in Asia Pacific and Beyond

Shaun Narine

“A very welcome addition to the canon of ASEAN studies. This book will be a reference for scholars, policymakers, and other interested readers for years to come.”

—Maria Ortuoste,
California State University, East Bay

“A systematic, clear, and comprehensive introduction to the range of challenges and developments that frame Southeast Asia’s contemporary story.”

—Satu Limaye,
East-West Center in Washington

Refuting criticisms that call into question the effectiveness, and even the purpose, of ASEAN, Shaun Narine traces the organization’s political and economic development and explores its impact within Southeast Asia and beyond.

Narine considers ASEAN’s role both regionally and with regard to the external powers—China, the United States, Japan, Russia, and increasingly India—whose interests so strongly influence the regional environment. His comprehensive, multi-layered analysis critically addresses the question of just how ASEAN is evolving to fit the demands of a new era.

Shaun Narine is associate professor of political science at St. Thomas University in New Brunswick, Canada.

Nontraditional Security Challenges in Southeast Asia: The Transnational Dimension

Amy L. Freedman and Ann Marie Murphy

With the countries of Southeast Asia increasingly challenged by a plethora of nontraditional security issues—climate change, food and water security, infectious diseases, and migration key among them—a number of important questions have emerged: What national and regional efforts are being made to address these issues? Why have some approaches proven more successful than others? How do competing private and public interests affect the ability of states to protect their citizens?

Addressing these questions, Amy Freedman and Ann Marie Murphy explore the factors that continue to impede cooperation in combating transnational security threats across the region.

Amy L. Freedman is professor of political science and international studies at Long Island

University Post. Ann Marie Murphy is associate professor in the School of Diplomacy and International Relations at Seton Hall University.

What Is Political Islam?

Jocelyne Cesari

“The most important work on political Islam to appear in more than a decade.”

—Peter Mandaville, George Mason University

“A grounding work.... Cesari adds nuance to the question of how modernity evolved in the Muslim context and unravels common assumptions and cemented theories pertaining to political Islam.... Fascinating and unique.”

—Melissa Finn, University of Waterloo

The debate continues unabated: Is political Islam decipherable through the tenets of the Islamic tradition—or is it a tool of secular actors who shrewdly misuse religious references? Is it an expression of modernity, or a return to the past? Eschewing these dichotomies, Jocelyne Cesari demystifies the continuous process of interaction between secular and religious actors and institutions that is at the core of political mobilization in the name of Islam.

Cesari traces the origins of political Islam to the inception of the modern nation-state, revealing the decisive role of secular nationalist rulers in its creation. In the process, she puts to rest the myth that there has been a lack of modernization in the Muslim world—and shows how that myth has proven dangerous. Ranging from Indonesia to Iraq, from Senegal to Egypt, her analysis provides a much needed corrective to the “conventional wisdom.”

Jocelyne Cesari is professor of religion and politics at the University of Birmingham; senior research fellow at Georgetown University’s Berkley Center for Religion, Peace, and World Affairs; and professorial fellow at the Australian Catholic University.
